C5 Course Description

This one-day course provides refresher training for supervisors/competent persons who are responsible for industrial deleading operations. It starts with a review of basic information about lead and the human health hazards associated with it. The course continues with a review and update of relevant EPA regulations and progresses through discussions of 29 CFR 1926.62 and changes in the Respiratory Protection Standard (29 CFR 1910.134). C5 concludes with discussions about control over emissions as presented in SSPC Guide 6.

Who Should Attend

Those assigned competent-person duties on any industrial deleading project; coatings inspectors who document contractor compliance; project managers and coating specifiers; containment superintendents; design engineers.

 The C-5 Course meets the competent person training requirements for SSPC QP-2 Contractor Certification.
